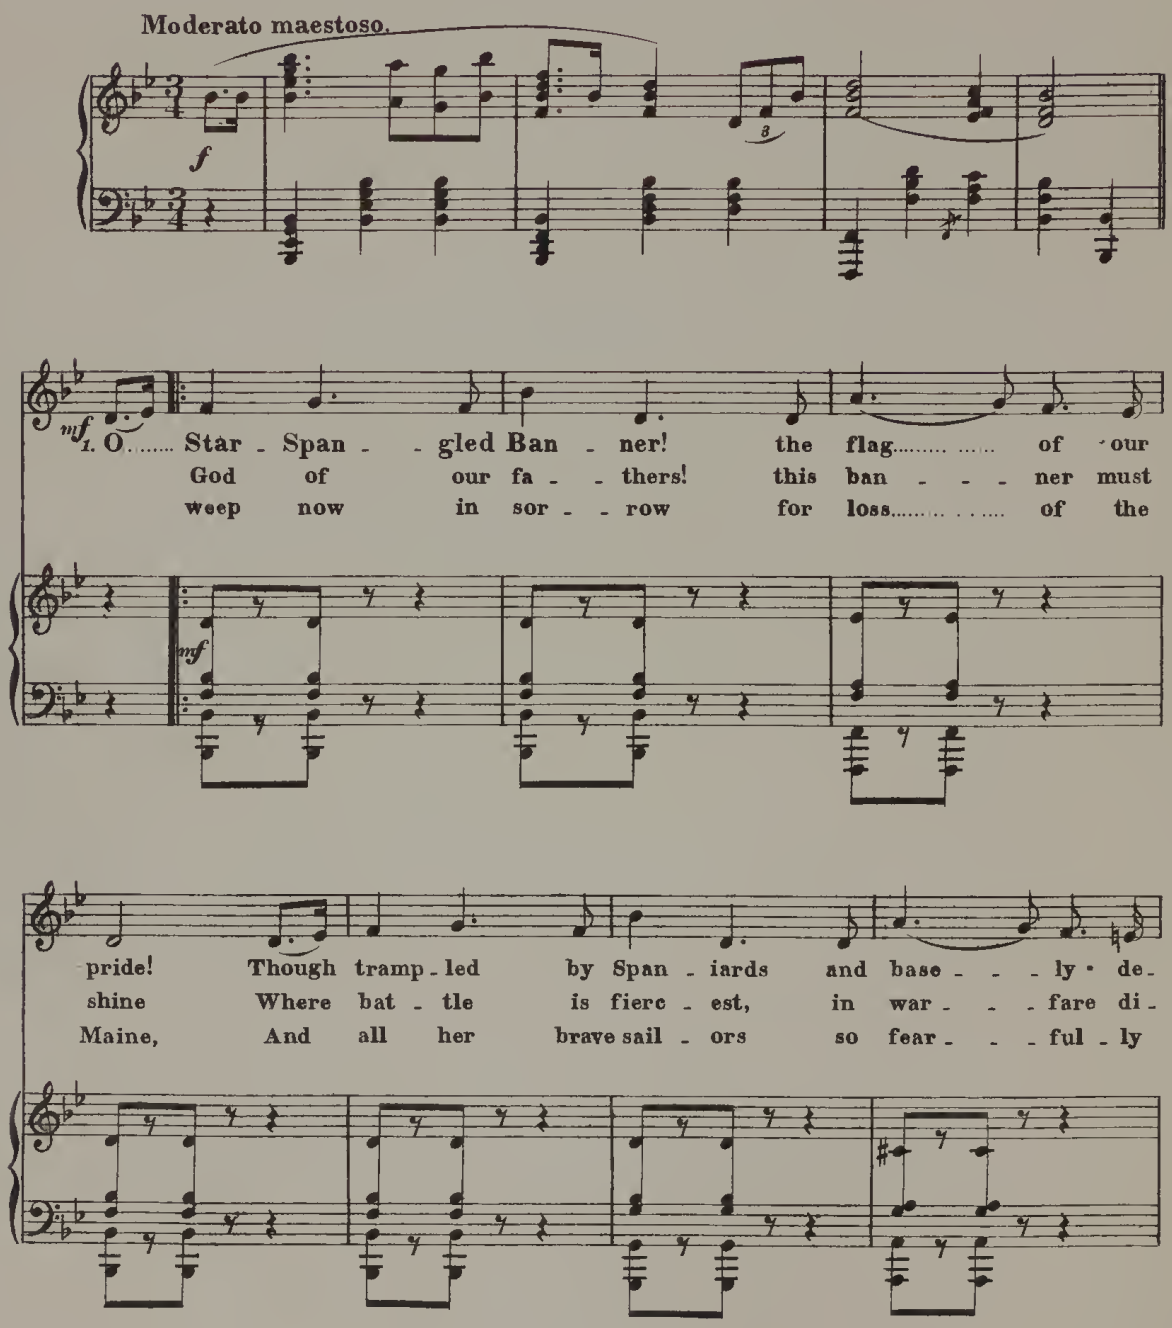
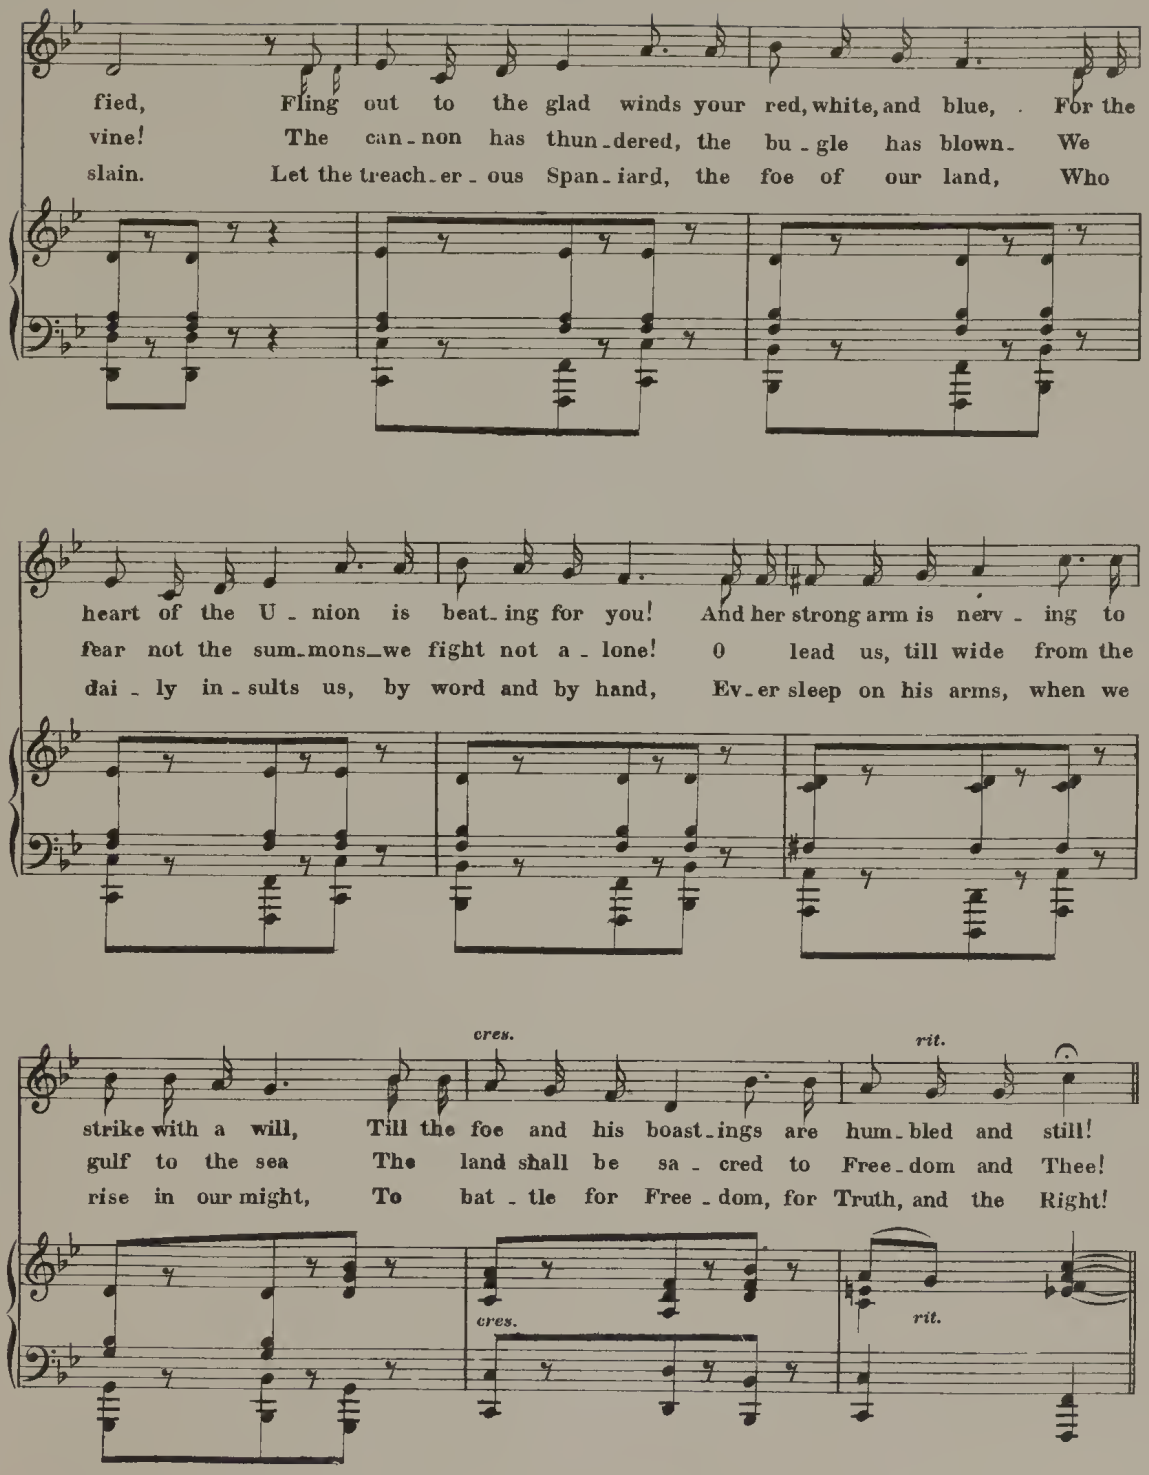
AS SUNG WITH GREAT SUCCESS BY J. Aldrich Libbey
THE STRIPES AND THE STARS
MUSIC BY
W.H. POMMER

THE STRIPES AND THE STARS.

Words by E. D. PROCTOR. Music by W. H. POMMER.



Copyright 1898 by W. H. Pommer.



fied, Fling out to the glad winds your red, white, and blue, For the vine! The can-non has thun-dered, the bu-gle has blown- We slain. Let the treach-er-ous Span-iard, the foe of our land, Who heart of the U-nion is beat-ing for you! And her strong arm is nerv-ing to fear not the sum-mons—we fight not a-lone! O lead us, till wide from the dai-ly in-sults us, by word and by hand, Ev-er sleep on his arms, when we cres.
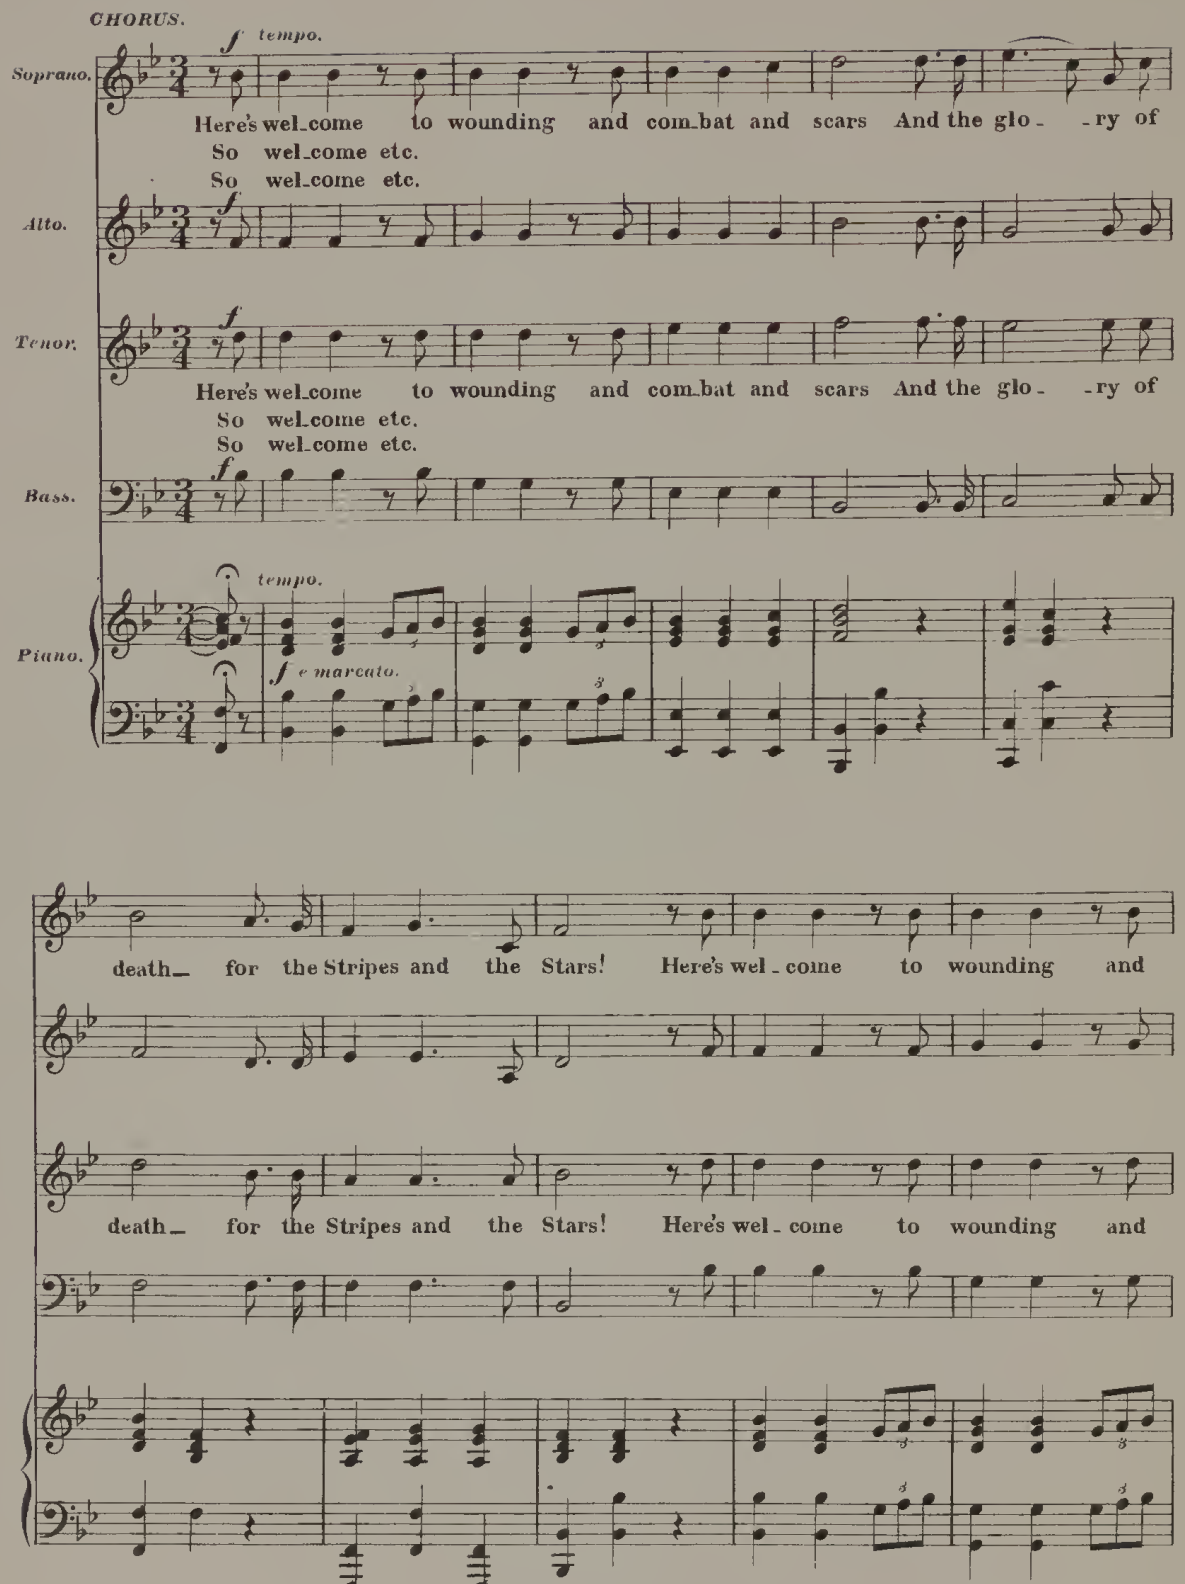
rit.
strike with a will, Till the foe and his boast-ings are hum-bled and still!
gulf to the sea The land shall be sa-cred to Free-dom and Thee!
rise in our might, To bat-tle for Free-dom, for Truth, and the Right!
cres.
rit.



CHORUS.
f tempo.
Soprano.
Here's wel_come to wounding and com_bat and scars And the glo_ _ry of
So wel_come etc.
So wel_come etc.
Alto.
Tenor.
Here's wel_come to wounding and com_bat and scars And the glo_ _ry of
So wel_come etc.
So wel_come etc.
Bass.
Piano.
tempo.
f e marcato.
death_ for the Stripes and the Stars! Here's wel_come to wounding and death_ for the Stripes and the Stars! Here's wel_come to wounding and

com - bat and scars And the glo - - ry of death for the Stripes and the com - bat and scars And the glo - - ry of death for the Stripes and the trem.
1 - 2.
3.
Stars!
2. O..... Stars!
3. We.....
Stars!
Stars!
Stars!